Commission Observes 50th Year

Commission members and guests assembled in the State Capitol for a Special Meeting to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Real Estate License Law and the Real Estate Commission.

(Excerpted from remarks by Phillip T. Fisher, Executive Director, at a special meeting of the North Carolina Real Estate Commission in the House Chamber of the State Capitol Building in Raleigh on May 21, 2007.)

Fifty years ago today in this hallowed chamber, the members of the House of Representatives assembled to consider Senate Bill 277- AN ACT TO DEFINE, REGULATE AND LICENSE REAL ESTATE BROKERS AND REAL ESTATE SALESMEN IN NORTH CAROLINA AND TO CREATE THE NORTH CAROLINA REAL ESTATE LICENSING BOARD AND DEFINE ITS POWERS AND DUTIES, AND TO PROVIDE PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION OF THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT.

Three decades earlier, similar legislation had been enacted but in 1939 was declared unconstitutional because it applied to only eight counties. Like its predecessor, the 1957 licensing bill was not without controversy.

According to newspaper accounts of the day, a Representative rose to offer an amendment to exempt anyone already licensed by another State licensing board. But Representative Childers of Gaston County, who was a sponsor of the bill, responded that "this will kill the whole thing".

Not giving up, the other Representative offered another amendment to exempt "farmers, bankers, teachers, preachers, and members and former members of the Legislature". But this brought Representative Gene Bost of Cabarrus County to his feet to knock down the amendment and bring the debate to a close.

So, despite the critics, fortunately the bill had its supporters. And when the roll was called back yonder, they were there. By a vote of 69 to 24, the Real Estate License Law was enacted and the Real Estate Licensing Board (now the "Real Estate Commission") created. Beginning in 1957 with its 2500 "grandfathered licensees", the number of licensees under the Commission's jurisdiction has now grown to more than 100,000. But through the years, its mission has remained the same: "To protect the interests of North Carolina real estate consumers".

Chairman Bass and Vice-Chairman Alston confer before the meeting.

Chairman Bass welcomes Ruffin Poole, Executive Counsel to Governor Easley who sent a congratulatory letter to the Commission.

Senate Majority Leader Tony Rand presents a Certificate of Recognition from the N.C. Senate.

Legal Counsel Miriam Baer leads "The Commissionaires", a chorus composed of Commission staff members, as they perform the anthem, "The Long Leaf Pine", written by Executive Director Fisher.

Rule Changes Proposed

Changes are proposed for certain Commission rules relating to agency agreements, advertising, firm licenses, brokers-in-charge, property disclosure, license reinstatement, website advertising, and "shopping offers".

If approved by the Commission, the rules would become effective January 1, 2008.

A summary of the most significant proposed changes follows:

Agency Agreements and Disclosure

- Clarify that brokers may not unlawfully discriminate against anyone in a real estate transaction, including persons not parties to the transaction.
- Require that written agency agreements be signed.

Business Entities

- Provide that the Commission will not issue a license to a firm when

Forms, Information Available 24/7

You may once again obtain certain information about your real estate license and/or various forms by telephone and fax anytime, any day, using the Commission's new Interactive Voice Response and Fax-on-Demand services.

Just dial (919) 850-2757 to receive information about your individual or firm license (i.e., renewal date, CE and postlicensing credits) or to request that any of the forms on page 4 be immediately faxed to you.

License Renewal Deadline June 30; It's Easier, Faster to Renew Online

It takes about two minutes to renew your real estate license online at the Commission's website, www.ncrec.state.nc.us. And, it's time to do just that with the June 30 deadline just ahead.

After logging in, go to the "Renew/Reinstate" tab and enter your license number and PIN (personal identification number). Unless you have changed it, your PIN will be the last four digits of your Social Security number.

All you will need is your MasterCard or Visa for the $40 fee. You will receive confirmation that your renewal is being processed by the Commission. While online, update your email, fax, and residence address, if needed.

Mailed renewals must be received by the Commission on or before June 30 (not postmarked). Otherwise your license will expire.

Continuing education credit information should be checked as well when online to monitor its correct posting. Allow 15 days following your class for any credits to be reflected. If you renew but do not have the required CE credits for the license period, your license status will be changed to "inactive" effective July 1.

Don't wait until June 30 - a Saturday - to renew!
Staff will not be available to assist with forgotten PIN numbers.

Commission Develops Enhanced BIC, Broker Tracking System

If you are affiliated with more than one firm as a broker-in-charge and/or full broker, you will soon be able to access the records of those multiple affiliations by logging onto the Real Estate Commission's website.

Under Commission rules, you may be a broker-in-charge at more than one firm if the firms are located at the same physical address.

Offer to Purchase Contract Form Changes Reviewed in 2007-2008 Update Course

Changes to the standard Offer to Purchase and Contract form, "material facts," and a review of licensing requirements are among the proposed topics to be discussed in the 2007-2008 RE Update Course.

All licensees must take the four hour Update Course each year as part of the eight hours of continuing education required between July 1 and June 10 of each year in order to have an active license the following July 1.

The Joint Forms Committee of the North Carolina Association of REALTORS® and the North Carolina Bar Association has proposed changes in the standard Offer to Purchase and Contract form (Form 2-T) used by licensees in their residential brokerage practice. If the revisions to the standard form are approved by the Governing Boards of each association, then the revised form would be available for use July 1, 2007.

Because of the significant legal consequences which might arise from changes in this form, the proposed changes are the primary topic for the 2007-2008 Update Course.

The interim edition of the Update materials will address the proposed changes as known in early June, and the final edition of the Update Course (generally available by late September) will reflect any modification in the final version of the form and any changes in the related addenda.

The Update Course will also review what constitutes "material facts." Specific examples will be summarized, including polybutylene piping, synthetic

Wastewater Regulations Can Impact Real Estate Licensees

By Blackwell M. Brogden, Jr., Former Chief Deputy Legal Counsel

(Editor's note: Because of continuing issues arising from inadequate disclosure relating to septic and public sewer systems, the following article, which appeared in the Fall 2000 issue of the Real Estate Bulletin, is being reprinted here.)

Every year, several real estate brokers are disciplined for some form of concealment or misrepresentation of material fact relating to septic systems. In order to avoid being the subject of a complaint, you as a broker should be generally aware of the regulatory program for septic systems and also understand how the program is locally administered.

Presently in North Carolina, local county health departments administer a septic permit program under state regulation and supervision. Certain types of septic treatment solutions require a permit directly from a state agency, others from the county health department.

Once issued, a septic permit does not remain valid indefinitely. Although this was once true, in 1983, a three-year life was imposed on permits (later raised to five years). If a system was not installed during the three- (or five) year life of the permit, a new permit had to be obtained. The new permit was subject to whatever standards were in effect at that time - not standards that were in effect three (or five) years earlier when the original permit was issued, and there was no guarantee that a permit would in fact be available.

Recent legislation has eased this situation by requiring the health department to re-issue expired permits under certain circumstances. However, the re-issued permit generally will require the use of additional technology to improve system performance.

Similarly, the state can terminate a septic system permit for changed conditions on the property, including soil which is inadequate to support the system, use in excess of system design or permit, or false statements made to obtain a permit. Termination (or denial) of a permit renders a property unusable for residential and many commercial purposes. Therefore, the fair market value of a property is dramatically affected by the septic system permit availability and soil suitability.

What if a purchaser buys property for residential purposes and isn't told that it doesn't "perc?" North Carolina court decisions have compelled builders, lot sellers and developers to pay damages or re-purchase properties in some circumstances when those properties could not be used due to unsuitability for septic system installation or operation.

A licensee who makes statements about a septic system must have an adequate factual basis....

A broker who makes statements about a property with regard to septic system use must have an adequate factual basis for such representations. If a listing agent does not know for certain the correct facts about septic system use or permitting for a property, the agent must make an adequate investigation of the facts before making any representations about the property. Likewise, an agent working with a buyer must remain alert to any "red flags" in a transaction that might require the agent to undertake an independent inquiry into septic system use on a particular property.

Real estate brokers must be truthful in rental transactions as well as sales transactions. Septic permit regulations generally specify a design parameter of two persons per bedroom listed on the permit (not the number of rooms in which an owner or agent places beds or the number of beds actually in the property). Thus, when determining occupancy limits, a broker must use all necessary diligence to convey only correct information about permitted occupancy of a property served by a septic system even in a rental transaction, despite economic pressures to increase rental income by advertising higher occupancy levels. Because it is unlawful for an owner to use a property in excess of the occupancy limit imposed by a septic system permit, a licensee cannot willingly or negligently cooperate with the owner in flouting the permit limits.

When the land a broker offers for sale is a building site which must use a wastewater system requiring a permit, the broker should advise all parties to make an adequate investigation of the suitability of the property for a permitted system. A party to such a transaction who is making sale or purchase decisions based on the intended use of the property should be cautioned to determine not just the availability of a permit but to also determine whether the permit will meet the party's intended use of the property.

Caveat

As a real estate broker in sales and/or rental transactions, you must make every reasonable effort to ensure that your representations are correct concerning septic system permit availability and occupancy limits on properties served by septic systems. Relying on the representation of a property owner alone is not enough!

Permitting, Inspections Now Required For New Private Drinking Water Wells

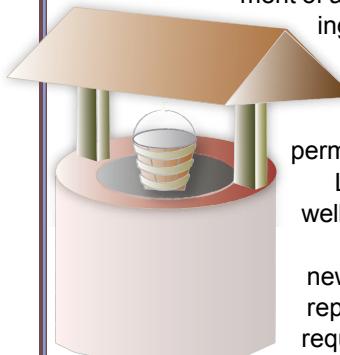

Permitting and inspection of new private drinking water wells and testing of water quality of certain private drinking water wells are now required in North Carolina as the result of legislation passed in the 2005 Session of the General Assembly.

The legislation authorizes the Environmental Management Commission and local county health departments to administer the new requirements affecting new private drinking water wells with a capacity of 100,000 gallons per day or greater.

Permits will be required for the construction of any new private drinking water well and for repairs of any private drinking water well, excluding repair or replacement of a pump or tank or any other work not involving the breaking or opening of well seal. Permits are generally valid for five years, but may be revoked if the local health department determines that there has been a material change in the facts or circumstances upon which the permit was based.

Local health departments are to maintain registries of wells for which construction or repair permits were required.

A certificate of completion must be obtained for any well newly constructed or existing well which has undergone repairs, before the well can be put in service. New wells will require testing of the water.

cess their records, check them for accuracy, and then update them as needed.

If you are a broker-in-charge, you will be able to ascertain the affiliations of those brokers in your office(s) to better fulfill your administrative responsibilities for firm recordkeeping.

Updating of records is accomplished for the most part through the use of two Commission forms: 2.04 – Broker-in-Charge Declaration and 2.08 – a triple-purpose form that requests activation of a license, notifies of provisional broker supervision, and notifies of broker affiliation.

The Commission's website, www.ncrec.state.nc.us, has a BIC Only area which allows a broker-in-charge to login using his or her PIN to verify the continuing education credits, postlicensing credits and renewal of those they supervise.

Another record crowd of real estate instructors, school officials and publisher representatives attended the Commission-sponsored annual Real Estate Educators Conference held in Raleigh on March 12-13, 2007.

meeting and traditional awards presentation capably led by President Lois Branning of Rowan-Cabarrus Community College.

The Association presented its "Program of the Year" award to instructor

lege representatives, one for private real estate school owners/directors, and one for instructors generally.

On the second day, instructor Deborah Carpenter of the J. Y. Monk Real Estate Training Center headed a panel of fellow instructors who provided suggestions for teaching the new postlicensing curriculum. Presenters included Vince Bankski of Wake Technical Community College, Curt Hardee of the J. Y. Monk Real Estate Training Center, Kathryn Rand of Rand Associates and Dana Rhodes of the Mingle Institute of Real Estate.

The conference concluded with the "Legal Update," featuring the Commission Director of Legal Services Tom Miller's discussion of "Shopping Offers" and Legal Education Officer Patricia Moylan's review of proposed rule changes and recent legal cases.

The Commission thanks North Carolina's real estate educators for their continued dedication and support, and congratulates Saundra Martin and Sheila Lowery for their achievements.

Instructor Performance Theme Of Annual Educators Conference

The 218 participants continues the relatively new trend of near standing-room only attendance that the conference has experienced in recent years.

Prelicense Education and Continuing Education "update" sessions were the focal points of the first morning's program.

Director of Education and Licensing Larry Outlaw discussed possible reasons for the recent decline in examination performance and the related issue of greater instructor accountability, as well as new instructor training and preparation.

Additionally, Mr. Outlaw announced and discussed proposed rule changes which would impact the pre-license education program.

Pamela Rorie, Continuing Education Officer, discussed information of particular interest to continuing education sponsors and instructors and asked for suggestions regarding the topics for the 2007-2008 Update course.

During the first day's luncheon, the North Carolina Real Estate Educators Association (NCREEA) held its spring

Sheila Lowery of Cleveland Community College and the New Horizon Real Estate School for her workbook, Real Estate Math: A Study Guide for North Carolina Real Estate Broker Pre-Licensing Students.

The "Educator of the Year" award was presented to instructor Saundra Martin of Central Piedmont Community College, who was cited for the outstanding success of her students on the real estate license examination.

Also during the luncheon, Commission Vice-Chairperson Melvin "Skip" Alston presented the Commission's Billie J. Mercer Excellence in Education Award to NCREEA's Educator of the Year, Saundra Martin.

Penalties for violations of the Real Estate Law and Commission rules vary depending upon the particular facts and circumstances present in each case. Due to space limitations in the Bulletin, a complete description of such facts cannot be reported in the following Disciplinary Action summaries.

DEBORAH H. BOWMAN (Pinebluff) – The Commission accepted the voluntary surrender of the broker license of Ms. Bowman for a period of two years effective April 12, 2007. The Commission dismissed without prejudice allegations that Ms. Bowman violated provisions of the Real Estate License Law and Commission rules. Ms. Bowman neither admitted nor denied misconduct.

TAMMIE D. BRISCOE (Fayetteville) – By Consent, the Commission revoked the broker license of Ms. Briscoe effective March 1, 2007. The Commission found that Ms. Briscoe, acting as a buyer agent, assisted her customers in entering into a contract to purchase a house and lot for $65,000 from a corporation owned by Ms. Briscoe when the corporation did not, in fact, own the property, but only had a contract to purchase it for $46,500. The Commission further found that Ms. Briscoe did not disclose to her buyers that the corporation would make a profit on the sale, instead falsely leading her buyers to believe that they were purchasing the property from the Veterans Administration following a foreclosure. Finally, the Commission found that Ms. Briscoe loaned her buyers approximately $9,000 for the down payment without disclosing to the lender that the money was borrowed in contravention of the lender's instructions.

SANDRA H. BUCKERY (Wilmington) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Ms. Buckery for a period of six months effective April 1, 2007. The Commission then stayed the suspension for a probationary period of six months. The Commission found that Ms. Buckery, as listing agent for her own property, failed to disclose in writing to the agent of buyers who contracted to purchase the property, that the property had been previously clad in synthetic stucco. The Commission noted that Ms. Buckery has resolved the matter with the buyers to their satisfaction.

KEVIN T. BURGESS (Burlington) – By Consent, the Commission revoked the broker license of Mr. Burgess effective May 1, 2007. The Commission found that Mr. Burgess, as a broker and manager of a homeowners' association, failed to keep the association's funds in a trust account and also made unauthorized transfers of funds from the association's deposit account.

CRAFT HOMES USA, LLC (Monroe) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the firm license of Craft Homes for a period of two years effective March 1, 2007. The Commission then stayed the suspension for a probationary period of five years. The Commission found that Craft Homes employed a broker-in-charge and salesperson who knowingly provided false information to lenders in various transactions between 2001 and 2003. Craft Homes terminated their employment and has fully cooperated with the Commission's investigator in this matter.

TONYA W. DIXON (Greenville) – By Consent, the Commission reprimanded Ms. Dixon effective February 26, 2007. The Commission found that Ms. Dixon, acting as listing agent for a property in foreclosure, failed to assure that a buyer who contracted to purchase the property was aware of the foreclosure. The buyer was unable to make timely arrangements to purchase it.

RICHARD H. FLEMING (Gardner) – By Consent, the Commission reprimanded Mr. Fleming effective June 1, 2007. The Commission found that Mr. Fleming acted as a buyer agent in a transaction where the buyer did not have sufficient funds to close; that at closing, the seller paid approximately $2,000 to the buyer, with the understanding that the buyer would reimburse the seller after closing; and that the loan was not disclosed on the closing statement. The Commission further found that the seller learned afterward that the payment outside closing was illegal and refused to accept the funds.

ROBERT F. FRANEK (Charlotte) – The Commission accepted the voluntary surrender of the broker license of Mr. Franek for a period of two years effective May 1, 2007. The Commission dismissed without prejudice allegations that Mr. Franek violated provisions of the Real Estate License Law and Com-

JEREMY W. HARDISON (Wilmington) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Mr. Hardison for a period of 30 days effective February 28, 2006. The Commission then stayed the suspension for a probationary period of one year. The Commission found that Mr. Hardison failed to disclose on his 2004 application for a salesperson license two misdemeanor convictions. The Commission noted that Mr. Hardison did disclose these offenses on his 2005 broker license application.

DONNA HARVEY (Surf City) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Ms. Harvey for a period of 90 days effective March 1, 2007. The Commission then stayed the suspension for a probationary period of one year. The Commission found that Ms. Harvey, while acting as broker-in-charge of a real estate brokerage firm, made no effort to review or oversee trust account procedures and therefore failed to detect significant trust account problems and shortages.

ROBERT H. HEWSON (Wilmington) – By Consent, the Commission revoked the broker license of Mr. Hewson effective February 26, 2007. The Commission found that Mr. Hewson, on November 8, 2005, pled guilty to Discharging a Weapon in Occupied Property, Violating a Domestic Protection Order, and First Degree Murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment without parole.

Real Estate License Law and Commission rules. The firm neither admitted nor denied misconduct.

LUCY P. JACOBS (Mooresville) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Ms. Jacobs for a period of one year effective December 15, 2006. One month was active with the remainder stayed for a probationary term of 11 months. The Commission found that Ms. Jacobs submitted false documentation to a lender for the purpose of obtaining commission draws which were not due at the time she specified and, in one case, obtained $20,000 when she knew there was no commission due her at all. The Commission noted that Ms. Jacobs has since repaid the debt she incurred.

ELIZABETH M. JONES (Oak Island) – By Consent, the Commission revoked the broker license of Ms. Jones effective March 1, 2007. The Commission found that Ms. Jones, who was bookkeeper and property manager for a firm acting as rental agent for owners of residential rental property, converted client monies in the firm's care and trust to her own use.

GORDON B. JONES (Kitty Hawk) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Mr. Jones for a period of two years effective February 1, 2007. The Commission noted that no client or customer suffered any loss or inconvenience.

SHERRY D. JORDAN (West Jefferson) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Ms. Jordan for a period of six months effective January 1, 2007. Two months were active with the remainder stayed for a probationary period of 10 months. The Commission found that Ms. Jordan, serving as dual agent for the purchase of two parcels of land by an agent in her office, failed to enter into a written buyer agency agreement with the buyer or get a Dual Agency Addendum signed. The Commission also found that, after the contract for purchase was signed, Ms. Jordan created a new, fictitious contract showing a price increase of $10,000 to enable the buyer to obtain a loan for a higher amount. Finally, the Commission found that at closing Ms. Jordan signed her commission check to the buyer without disclosing this to the lender or documenting it on the closing statement and also failed to inform the buyer of an easement existing on the property.

JOSEPH D. KAZNOWSKI (Cary)

– By Consent, the Commission revoked the broker license of Mr. Kaznowski effective February 26, 2007. The Commission found that Mr. Kaznowski managed a residential property without the knowledge of the firm where he was associated or its broker-in-charge, and did not maintain a trust account for the handling of the funds he collected, instead depositing them in the account of an unlicensed corporation under his control. The Commission also found that Mr. Kaznowski failed to turn over at least $8,600 to the property owner, failed to account to the tenants for their $2,000 tenant security deposit, and failed to provide to the Commission trust account and other records pertaining to his management of the property. Finally, the Commission found that Mr. Kaznowski was convicted in 1998 and again in 2000 of Driving While Impaired (DWI), and failed to report the convictions to the Commission.

SAMUEL C. LAVERGNE (Charlotte) – The Commission accepted the permanent voluntary surrender of the broker license of Mr. Lavergne effective February 26, 2007. The Commission dismissed without prejudice allegations that Mr. Lavergne had violated provisions of the Real Estate License Law and Commission rules. Mr. Lavergne neither admitted nor denied misconduct.

RICHARD A. MAKEPEACE (Cahiers) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Mr. Makepeace for a period of five years effective April 1, 2007. The Commission found that that Mr. Makepeace contracted to purchase for full price two parcels of real property listed for sale; before closing, he learned the value of the two parcels was significantly more than the list/contract price and failed to disclose the value of the property to his seller/clients. The Commission also found that Mr. Makepeace, prior to closing, received an offer to purchase one of the lots for a price significantly more than he agreed to pay for both lots and failed to disclose this offer to his seller clients. Finally, the Commission found that Mr. Makepeace used simultaneous closings and a straw buyer to purchase both lots from the sellers at the lower price and sell one lot to the true buyer for a significant profit.

LINDA DIANE MARTIN (Banner Elk) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Ms. Martin for a period of six months effective June 1, 2007. The Commission then stayed the suspension for a probationary period of six months under certain conditions. The Commission also found that after the management agreement ended, Ms. Martin directed a payment due the owner be sent to herself and failed to release the funds to the owner for several months.

SHERRON MCNEIL-MOBLEY

(Charlotte) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Ms. McNeil-Mobley for a period of six months effective January 1, 2007. The Commission found that Ms. McNeil-Mobley, acting as a buyer-agent, engaged an unlicensed person associated with a mortgage firm to show a buyer properties for sale and to assist the buyer in negotiating an offer to purchase a house and lot. Further, the Commission found that when the transaction did not close, the unlicensed person arranged to have another person acquire the property without informing the seller or the seller's agent.

JOHN S. MCQUEEN (Huntersville) – By Consent, the Commission suspended the broker license of Mr. McQueen for a period of one year effective January 1, 2007. Ninety days of the suspension were active with the remainder stayed for a probationary term. The Commission found that Mr. McQueen acted as a buyer agent and could not supply the Commission with a copy of any written buyer agency agreement or agency disclosure. The Commission also found that Mr. McQueen agreed to buy out the buyer's lease upon her purchase of a particular property, a payment not permitted by the buyer's lender in the transaction, and had the closing attorney's paralegal note the payment on her copy of the closing statement, which was not supplied to the lender. The Commission noted that Mr. McQueen subsequently paid a portion, but not all, of the money to the buyer's former landlord.

RICHARD C. MILLER (Harbinger) – The Commission accepted the voluntary surrender of the broker license of Mr. Miller for a period of two years effective March 1, 2007. The Commission found that Ms. Nantz's real estate appraiser certificate was revoked by the North Carolina Appraisal Board in 2004 and that the Board's decision was upheld in Superior Court and the North Carolina Court of Appeals. The Commission further found that the Board's decision was based in part upon a finding that Ms. Nantz communicated appraisals in a fraudulent manner.

Fifty Years

Blessed with the sound counsel of its dedicated members, the creative ideas and energy of its talented staff, and the cooperation and support of its friends and the organizations and institutions represented here today, the Commission has steadfastly pursued this objective. So that today, one-half century after its humble beginning in this very room, the North Carolina Real Estate Commission stands poised and prepared to confront the many challenges that still lie ahead in serving our fellow citizens.

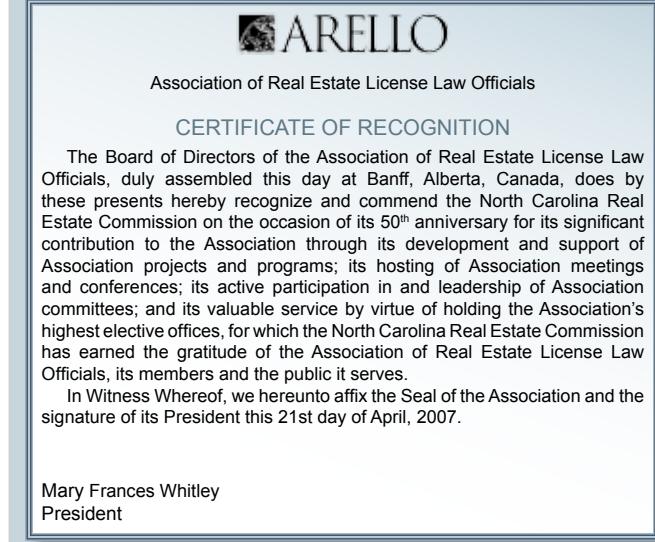

For your valuable contribution to this worthy cause, real estate consumers and practitioners should be most grateful, and you all should be very, very proud.

Current and former Commission members gather to celebrate the Commission's 50th anniversary.
